

Verfassungsgeschichte

Verfassungsvergleich

Verfassungsrecht

Rechtsphilosophie

Overview

Countries

Keys

Persons

Organizations

Links

Download

Synonyms

Liberia Constitution

{ Adopted on: 6 Jan 1986 }
{ ICL Document Status: 6 Jan 1986 }

{ Editor's Note:

The current ICL edition is based on the text provided on numerous places on the internet (<http://www.republicofliberia.com/constitution.htm>). We did not change the original language standards, but had to work on the corrupt paragraph numbering in some articles (e.g., 34). Furthermore, this edition features paragraph numbers and (some) Article titles.

Preamble

We the People of the Republic of Liberia:

Acknowledging our devout gratitude to God for our existence as a Free, Sovereign and Independent Nation; and relying on His Divine Guidance for our survival as a Nation;

Realizing from many experiences during the course of our national existence which culminated in the Revolution of April 12, 1980, when our Constitution of July 26, 1847 was suspended, that irrespective of history, tradition, creed, or ethnic background we are of one common body politic; Exercising our natural, inherent and inalienable rights to establish a framework of government for the purpose of promoting unity, liberty, peace, stability, equality, justice and human rights and with opportunities for political, social, moral, spiritual and cultural advancement of our society and for our posterity; and

Having resolved to live in harmony, to practice fraternal love, tolerance and understanding, and being fully mindful of our obligation to promote African unity and international peace and cooperation; Do hereby solemnly make, establish, proclaim, and publish this Constitution for the government of the Republic of Liberia.

Chapter I Structure of the State

Article 1

All power is inherent in the people. All free governments are instituted by their authority and they have the right to alter and reform the same when their safety and happiness so require; to ensure democratic government which responds to the wishes of the governed, the people have the right at such period, and in such manner as provided for under this Constitution, to cause their servants to leave office and to fill vacancies by regular elections and appointments.

Article 2

(1) This Constitution is the supreme and fundamental law of Liberia and its provisions shall have force and effect on all authorities and persons throughout the Republic.

(2) Any laws, treaties, statutes, decrees, customs and regulations found to be inconsistent with the provisions of this Constitution shall be void.

the extent of the inconsistency, be void and of no legal effect. The Supreme Court, pursuant to judicial review, is empowered to declare any inconsistent laws unconstitutional.

Article 3

Liberia is a unitary sovereign state divided into counties for administrative purposes. The government is Republican with three separate coordinate branches: the legislative, the Executive and the Judiciary. Consistent with the principles of separation of powers and checks and balances, no person holding office in one of these branches shall hold office in or exercise any of the powers of any of the other two branches except as otherwise provided in this Constitution; and no person shall serve in one of the said branches shall serve on any autonomous public agency.

Chapter II General Principles of National Policy

Article 4

The principles contained in this Chapter shall be fundamental in the governance of the Republic and shall serve as guidelines in the formulation of legislative, executive and administrative directives and their execution.

Article 5

The Republic shall:

- a. aim at strengthening the national integration and unity of the people of Liberia, regardless of regional or other differences, into one body politic; and the Legislature shall enact laws providing for the unification and the encouragement of all citizens to participate in government;
- b. preserve, protect and promote positive Liberian culture, ensuring that traditional values compatible with public policy and national progress are adopted and developed as an integral part of the growing needs of the Liberian society;
- c. take steps, by appropriate legislation and executive orders, to eliminate sectionalism and such abuses of power as the misuse of government resources, nepotism and all other corruptions.

Article 6

The Republic shall, because of the vital role assigned to the individual citizen under this Constitution, for the social, economic and political well being of Liberia, provide equal access to educational opportunities and facilities for all citizens to the extent of available resources. Emphasis shall be placed on the primary education of the Liberian people and the elimination of illiteracy.

Article 7

The Republic shall, consistent with the principles of individual freedom and social justice contained in this Constitution, manage the national economy and the natural resources of Liberia in such a manner as to ensure the maximum feasible participation of Liberian citizens under conditions of equality and to promote the general welfare of the Liberian people and the economic development of Liberia.

Article 8

The Republic shall direct its policy towards ensuring for all citizens, without discrimination, the right to employment and livelihood under just and humane conditions, and towards promoting social welfare facilities in employment.

Article 9

The Republic shall encourage the promotion of bilateral and regional cooperation between Liberia and other nations and the formation and maintenance of regional organizations and institutions for the cultural, social, political and economic development of the peoples of Africa and other nations.

Article 10

The Republic shall ensure the publication and dissemination of this Constitution throughout and the teaching of its principles and provisions in all institutions of learning in Liberia.

CHAPTER III FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTSArticle 11

a. All persons are born equally free and independent and have certain natural, inherent rights, among which are the right of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of pursuing a security of the person and of acquiring, possessing and protecting property, subject to such as provided for in this Constitution. a

b. All persons, irrespective of ethnic background, race, sex, creed, place of origin or political, are entitled to the fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual, subject to such qualifications as provided for in this Constitution.

c. All persons are equal before the law and are therefore entitled to the equal protection of the law.

Article 12

No person shall be held in slavery or forced labor within the Republic, nor shall any citizen or any person resident therein deal in slaves or subject any other person to forced labor, debt peonage; but labor reasonably required in consequence of a court sentence or order conforming with acceptable labor standards, service in the military, work or service which forms part of national obligations or service exacted in cases of emergency or calamity threatening the life or well-being of the community shall not be deemed forced labor.

Article 13

a. Every person lawfully within the Republic shall have the right to move freely throughout in any part thereof and to leave therefrom subject however to the safeguarding of public order, public health or morals or the rights and freedoms of others.

b. Every Liberian Citizen shall have the right to leave and to enter Liberia at any time. Lib non-Liberian residents may be extradited to foreign country for prosecution of a criminal case in accordance with the provisions of an extradition treaty or other reciprocal international agreement. Non-Liberian residents may be expelled from the Republic of Liberia for cause.

Article 14

All persons shall be entitled to freedom of thought, conscience and religion and no person shall be hindered in the enjoyment thereof except as may be required by law to protect public safety, order, morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others. All persons who, in the practice of their religion, conduct themselves peaceably, not obstructing others and conforming to the standards herein, shall be entitled to the protection of the law. No religious denomination or sect shall have exclusive privilege or preference over any other, but all shall be treated alike; and no religion shall be required for any civil or military office or for the exercise of any civil right. Consistent with the separation of religion and state, the Republic shall establish no state religion.

Article 15

a. Every person shall have the right to freedom of expression, being fully responsible for the consequences of the exercise of this right. This right shall not be curtailed, restricted or enjoined by government save during an emergency in accordance with this Constitution.

b. The right encompasses the right to hold opinions without interference and the right to know includes freedom of speech and of the press, academic freedom to receive and impart knowledge.

information and the right of libraries to make such knowledge available. It includes non-in the use of the mail, telephone and telegraph. It likewise includes the right to remain silent c. In pursuance of this right, there shall be no limitation on the public right to be informed government and its functionaries.

d. Access to state owned media shall not be denied because of any disagreement with or ideas express. Denial of such access may be challenged in a court of competent jurisdiction e. This freedom may be limited only by judicial action in proceedings grounded in defamation the rights of privacy and publicity or in the commercial aspect of expression in deception, and copyright infringement.

Article 16

No person shall be subjected to interference with his privacy of person, family, home or c except by order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

Article 17

All persons, at all times, in an orderly and peaceable manner, shall have the right to assemble upon the common good, to instruct their representatives, to petition the Government or ot for the redress of grievances and to associate fully with others or refuse to associate in p trade unions and other organizations.

Article 18

All Liberian citizens shall have equal opportunity for work and employment regardless of r religion, ethnic background, place of origin or political affiliation, and all shall be entitled to equal work.

Article 19

No person other than members of the Armed Forces of Liberia or of the militia in active s subject to military law, or made to suffer any pains or penalties by virtue of that law, or be martial.

Article 20

a. No person shall be deprived of life, liberty, security of the person, property, privilege or except as the outcome of a hearing judgment consistent with the provisions laid down in t and in accordance with due process of law. Justice shall be done without sale, denial or c cases not arising in courts not of record, under courts-martial and upon impeachment, the have the right to trial by jury.

b. The right of an appeal from a judgment, decree, decision or ruling of any court or adm agency, except the Supreme Court, shall be held inviolable. The legislature shall prescrib procedures for the easy, expeditious and inexpensive filing and hearing of an appeal.

Article 21

a. No person shall be made subject to any law or punishment which was not in effect at t commission of an offense, nor shall the Legislature enact any bill of attainder or ex post f:

b. No person shall be subject to search or seizure of his person or property, whether on a or for any other purpose, unless upon warrant lawfully issued upon probable cause supp oath or affirmation, specifically identifying the person or place to be searched and stating search; provided, however, that a search or seizure shall be permissible without a search the arresting authorities act during the commission of a crime or in hot pursuit of a person committed a crime.

c. Every person suspected or accused of committing a crime shall immediately upon arre detail of the charges, of the right to remain silent and of the fact that any statement made against him in a court of law. Such person shall be entitled to counsel at every stage of th and shall have the right not to be interrogated except in the presence of counsel. Any admissions or statements made by the accused in the absence of such counsel shall be deemed inadmissible evidence in a court of law.

d. i. All accused persons shall be bailable upon their personal recognizance or by sufficient sureties depending upon the gravity of the charge, unless charged for capital offenses or grave offenses by law.

ii. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor excessive punishment. e. No person charged, arrested, restricted, detained or otherwise held in confinement shall be subjected to torture or inhumane treatment; nor shall any person except military personnel, be kept or confined in a military facility; nor shall any person be seized and kept among convicted prisoners or treated as such unless such person first shall have been convicted of a crime in court of competent jurisdiction. The Legislature shall make it a criminal offense and provide for appropriate penalties against any security officer, prosecutor, administrator or any other public or security officer, prosecutor or any other public official acting in contravention of this provision; and any person so damaged by the conduct of any such public official shall have a civil remedy therefor, exclusive of any criminal remedy imposed.

f. Every person arrested or detained shall be formally charged and presented before a court of law within forty-eight hours. Should the court determine the existence of a prima facie case against the accused, it shall issue a formal writ of arrest setting out the charge or charges and shall provide for a speedy trial. There shall be no preventive detention.

g. The right to the writ of habeas corpus, being essential to the protection of human rights, shall be guaranteed at all times, and any person arrested or detained and not presented to court within the time specified may in consequence exercise this right.

h. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or infamous crime except in cases of infamy or in cases arising in the Armed Forces and petty offenses, unless upon indictment by Grand Jury. In such cases, the accused shall have the right to a speedy, public and impartial trial by a jury of his peers unless such person shall, with appropriate understanding, expressly waive the right to a jury trial. In criminal cases, the accused shall have the right to be represented by counsel of his choice, to call witnesses against him and to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, to be compelled to furnish evidence against himself and he shall be presumed innocent until the contrary is proved beyond a reasonable doubt. No person shall be subject to double jeopardy.

i. The right to counsel and the rights of counsel shall be inviolable. There shall be no interference with the lawyer-client relationship. In all trials, hearings, interrogatories and other proceedings where the accused is accused of a criminal offense, the accused shall have the right to counsel of his choice; if the accused is unable to secure such representation, the Republic shall make available legal services to ensure the protection of his rights. There shall be absolute immunity from any government interference in the performance of legal services as a counselor or advocate; lawyers' offices shall not be searched or papers examined or taken save pursuant to a search warrant and no lawyer shall be prevented from or punished for providing legal services, regardless of the nature of the case against or the guilt of his client, no lawyer shall be barred from practice for political reasons.

k. Any person who, upon conviction of a criminal offense, was deprived of the enjoyment of his property and liberties, shall have the same automatically restored upon serving the sentence and upon the payment of any other penalty imposed, or upon an executive pardon.

Article 22

a. Every person shall have the right to own property alone as well as in association with others, but that only Liberian citizens shall have the right to own real property within the Republic.

b. Private property rights, however, shall not extend to any mineral resources on or beneath the surface of any lands under the seas and waterways of the Republic. All mineral resources in and under the surface of any other waterways shall belong to the Republic and be used by and for the entire Republic.

c. Non-citizen missionary, educational and other benevolent institutions shall have the right to own property, as long as that property is used for the purposes for which acquired; property not shall escheat to the Republic.

d . The Republic may, on the basis of reciprocity, convey to a foreign government property perpetually for its diplomatic activities. This land shall not be transferred or otherwise conveyed to any other party or used for any other purpose, except upon the expressed permission of the Government. All property so conveyed may escheat to the Republic in the event of a cessation of diplomatic relations.

Article 23

a. The property which a person possesses at the time of marriage or which may afterwards be acquired as a result of one's own labors shall not be held for or otherwise applied to the liquidation of obligations of the spouse, whether contracted before or after marriage; nor shall the property of a man or a woman be alienated or be controlled by that person's spouse without his or her consent.

b. The Legislature shall enact laws to govern the devolution of estates and establish right of inheritance for spouses of both statutory and customary marriages so as to give adequate provision for surviving spouses and children of such marriages.

Article 24

a. While the inviolability of private property shall be guaranteed by the Republic, expropriation is authorized for the security of the nation in the event of armed conflict or where the public interest is endangered or for any other public purposes, provided:

(i) that reasons for such expropriation are given;

(ii) that there is prompt payment of just compensation;

(iii) that such expropriation or the compensation offered may be challenged freely by the owner of the property in a court of law with no penalty for having brought such action; and

(iv) that when property taken for public use ceases to be so used, the Republic shall accede to the right of the owner or those entitled to the property through such owner, the right of first refusal to reacquire the property.

b. All real property held by a person whose certificate of naturalization has been cancelled shall revert to the Republic unless such person shall have a spouse and/or lineal heirs who are Liberian citizens. In such case the real property shall be transferred to them in accordance with the intestacy law.

c. The power of the Legislature to provide punishment for treason or other crimes shall not be limited by the deprivation or forfeiture of the right of inheritance, although its enjoyment by the convicted person may be postponed during a term of imprisonment judicially imposed; provided that if the convicted person has minor children and a spouse, the spouse or next of kin in the order of priority shall administer the estate. Punishment shall preclude the inheritance, enjoyment or forfeiture by others entitled thereunder. The right of the convicted person at the time of conviction or subsequent thereto may have possession of the property.

Article 25

Obligation of contract shall be guaranteed by the Republic and no laws shall be passed which impair this right.

Article 26

Where any person or any association alleges that any of the rights granted under this Constitution or legislative enactments are constitutionally contravened, that person or association may institute a writ of habeas corpus and benefit of court direction, order or writ, including a judgment of unconstitutionality; and any person or association, by an act of the Government or any person acting under its authority, whether in property or otherwise, shall have the right to bring suit for appropriate redress. All such suits brought against the Government shall originate in a Claims Court; appeals from judgment of the Claims Court shall be heard by the Supreme Court.

Chapter IV Citizenship

Article 27

- a. All persons who, on the coming into force of this Constitution were lawfully citizens of Liberia shall continue to be Liberian citizens.
- b. In order to preserve, foster and maintain the positive Liberian culture, values and character, persons who are Negroes or of Negro descent shall qualify by birth or by naturalization to be citizens of Liberia.
- c. The Legislature shall, adhering to the above standard, prescribe such other qualifications and procedures by which naturalization may be obtained.

Article 28

Any person, at least one of whose parents was a citizen of Liberia at the time of the person's birth, shall be a citizen of Liberia; provided that any such person shall upon reaching maturity renounce citizenship acquired by virtue of one parent being a citizen of another country. No citizen of Liberia shall be deprived of citizenship or nationality except as provided by law; and no person shall have the right to change citizenship or nationality.

Chapter V The LegislatureArticle 29

The legislative power of the Republic shall be vested in the Legislature of Liberia which shall consist of two separate houses: A Senate and a House of Representatives, both of which must pass on the same day. The enacting style shall be: "It is enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of Liberia in Legislature assembled."

Article 30

- Citizens of Liberia who meet the following qualifications are eligible to become members of the Legislature:
- a. for the Senate, have attained the age of 30 years and for the House of Representatives, the age of 25 years;
 - b. be domiciled in the country or constituency to be represented not less than one year prior to the election and be a taxpayer.

Article 31

Each member of the Legislature, before taking his seat and entering upon the duties of his office, shall swear and subscribe to a solemn oath of affirmation, before the presiding officer of the House to which he was elected and in the presence of other members of that House, to uphold and defend the Constitution and laws of the Republic and to discharge faithfully the duties of such office.

Article 32

- a. The Legislature shall assemble in regular session once a year on the second working day of January.
- b. The President shall, on his own initiative or upon receipt of a certificate signed by at least two-thirds of the total membership of each House, and by proclamation, extend a regular session of the Legislature beyond the date for adjournment or call a special extraordinary session of that body to discuss matters of national emergency and concern. When the extension or call is at the request of the President, the proclamation shall be issued not later than forty-eight hours after receipt of the certificate of the President.

Article 33

Simple majority of each House shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but a quorum may adjourn from day to day and compel the attendance of absent members. When of Representatives and the Senate shall meet in joint session, the presiding officer of the Representatives shall preside.

Article 34

The Legislature shall have the power:

- a. to create new counties and other political sub-division, and readjust existing county boundaries;
- b. to provide for the security of the Republic;
- c. to provide for the common defense, to declare war and authorize the Executive to conduct and support the Armed Forces of the Republic, and to make appropriations therefor; and to make appropriation of money for that use shall be for a longer term than on year; and to make regulations for the governance of the Armed Forces of the Republic;
- d. to levy taxes, duties, imports, exercise and other revenues, to borrow money, issue currency and to make appropriations for the fiscal governance of the Republic, subject to the following:
 - i. all revenue bills, whether subsidies, charges, imports, duties or taxes, and other financial bills shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments to other bills. No other financial charge shall be established, fixed, laid or levied on any individual or locality under any pretext whatsoever except by the expressed consent of the individual or locality. In all such cases, a true and correct account of funds collected shall be made to the individual or locality;
 - ii. no monies shall be drawn from the treasure except in consequence of appropriations made by law, and upon enactment and upon warrant of the President; and no coin shall be minted or national currency issued except by the expressed authority of the Legislature. An annual statement and account of the receipts and disbursements of all public monies shall be submitted by the office of the President to the Legislature annually;
 - iii. no loans shall be raised by the Government on behalf of the Republic or guaranteed by the Government or any institution or authority otherwise than by or under the authority of a legislative enactment;
- e. to constitute courts inferior to the Supreme Court, including circuit courts, claims courts and other courts with prescribed jurisdictional powers as may be deemed necessary for the proper administration of justice throughout the Republic;
- f. to approve treaties, conventions and such other international agreements negotiated or entered into by or on behalf of the Republic;
- g. to regulate trade and commerce between Liberia and other nations;
- h. to establish laws for citizenship, naturalization and residence;
- i. to enact the election laws;
- k. to establish various categories of criminal offenses and provide for the punishment thereof;
- l. to enact laws providing pension scheme for various categories of government officials according to age and tenure of service; and
- m. to make other laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the Republic, in any department or officer thereof.

Article 35

- (1) Each bill or resolution which shall have passed both Houses of the Legislature shall, before it becomes law, be laid before the President for his approval. If he grants approval, it shall become law. If he does not approve such bill or resolution, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated. In so doing, the President may disapprove of the entire bill or resolution or any part thereof. This veto may be overridden by the re-passage of such bill, resolution or item by a majority of two-thirds of the members in each House, in which case it shall become law. If the President returns the bill or resolution within twenty days after the same shall have been laid before him, it shall become law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature by adjournment prevents the return of the bill or resolution.
- (2) No bill or resolution shall embrace more than one subject which shall be expressed in its title.

Article 36

The Senators and Representatives shall receive from the Republic remuneration for their fixed by law, provided that any increase shall become effective at the beginning of the ne:

Article 37

In the event of a vacancy in the Legislature caused by death, resignation, expulsion or otl presiding officer shall within 30 days notify the Elections Commission thereof. The Electio shall not later than 90 days thereafter cause a by-election to be held; provided that where occurs within 90 days prior to the holding of general elections, the filling of the vacancy st holding of such general elections.

Article 38

Each House shall adopt its own rules of procedure, enforce order and with the concurrent the entire membership, may expel a member for cause. Each House shall establish its ov and sub-committees; provided, however, that the committees on revenues and appropriat of one member from each County. All rules adopted by the Legislature shall conform to th due process of law laid down in this Constitution.

Article 39

The Legislature shall cause a census of the Republic to be undertaken every ten years.

Article 40

Neither House shall adjourn for more than rive days without the consent of the other and always sit in the same city.

Article 41

The business of the Legislature shall be concluded in the English language or, when ade preparations shall have been made, in one more of the languages of the Republic as the by resolution approve.

Article 42

No member of the Senate or House of Representatives shall be arrested, detained, prose a result of opinions expressed or votes cast in the exercise of the functions of his office. N privileged from arrest while attending, going to or returning from sessions of the Legislatu treason, felony or breach of the peace. All official acts done or performed and all stateme Chambers of the Legislature shall be privileged, and no Legislator shall be held accounta therefor.

Article 43

The power to prepare a bill of impeachment is vested solely in the House of Representati power to try all impeachments is vested solely in the Senate. When the President, Vice P Associate Justice is to be tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; when the Chief Justice or subordinate court of record is to be tried, the President of the Senate shall preside. No pe impeached but by the concurrence of two-thirds of the total membership of the Senate. Ju cases shall not extend beyond removal from office and disqualification to hold public offic but the party may be tried at law for the same offense. The Legislature shall prescribe the impeachment proceedings which shall be in conformity with the requirements of due proc

Article 44

Contempt of the Legislature shall consist of actions which obstruct the legislative function obstruct or impede members or officers of the Legislature in the discharge of their legislat may be punished by the House concerned by reasonable sanctions after a hearing consis process of law. No sanctions shall extend beyond the session of the Legislature wherein any sanction imposed shall conform to the provisions on Fundamental Rights laid down in Disputes between legislators and non-members which are properly cognizable in the court entertained or heard in the Legislature.

Article 45

The Senate shall be composed of Senators elected for a term of nine years by the registered voters of the counties, but a Senator elected in a by-election to fill a vacancy created by death, resignation or otherwise, shall be so elected to serve only the remainder of the unexpired term. Each county shall elect two Senators and each Senator shall have one vote in the Senate and shall be eligible for re-election.

Article 46

Immediately after the Senate shall have assembled following the elections prior to the coming into force of this Constitution, the Senators shall be divided into two categories as a result of the votes cast in each county. The Senator with the higher votes cast shall be the Senator from a county shall be in the first category. The seats of Senators of the first category shall be vacated at the expiration of their term. In the interest of legislative continuity, the Senators of the second category shall serve six years only, after the first elections. Thereafter, all Senators shall be elected to serve a term of nine years.

Article 47

(1) The Senate shall elect once every six years a President Pro Tempore who shall preside over the Senate, and such other officers as shall ensure the proper functioning of the Senate. The President Pro Tempore and other officers so elected may be removed from office for cause by resolution of a two-thirds majority of the members of the Senate.

Article 48

The House of Representatives shall be composed of members elected for a term of six years by the registered voters in each of the legislative constituencies of the counties, but a member of the House of Representatives elected in a by-election to fill a vacancy created by death, resignation or otherwise, shall be elected to serve only the remainder of the unexpired term of the office. Members of the House of Representatives shall be eligible for re-election.

Article 49

The House of Representatives shall elect once every six years a Speaker who shall be the head of that body, a Deputy Speaker, and such other officers as shall ensure the proper functioning of the House. The speaker, the Deputy Speaker and other officers so elected may be removed from office for cause by resolution of a two-thirds majority of the members of the House.

Chapter IV The Executive

Article 50

The Executive Power of the Republic shall be vested in the President who shall be the Head of Government and Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of Liberia. The President shall be elected by universal adult suffrage of registered voters in the Republic and shall hold office for a term of four years commencing at noon on the third working Monday in January of the year immediately following the general elections. No person shall serve as President for more than two terms.

Article 51

There shall be a Vice-President who shall assist the President in the discharge of his functions. The President shall be elected on the same political ticket and shall serve the same term as the Vice-President. The Vice-President shall be President of the Senate and preside over its deliberations without exception except in the case of a tie vote. He shall attend meetings of the cabinet and other governmental bodies and shall perform such functions as the President shall delegate or deem appropriate; powers specifically vested in the President by the provisions of this Constitution shall be exercised by the Vice-President.

Article 52

No person shall be eligible to hold the office of President or Vice-President, unless that person is:

- a natural born Liberian citizen of not less than 35 years of age;
- the owner of unencumbered real property valued at not less than twenty-five thousand dollars;
- resident in the Republic ten years prior to his election, provided that the President and Vice-President shall not come from the same County.

Article 53

- The President and the Vice-President shall, before entering on the execution of the duties of their respective offices, take a solemn oath or affirmation to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution and the laws of the Republic and faithfully execute the duties of the office. The oath or affirmation shall be administered in joint convention of both Houses of the Legislature by the Chief Justice or, if he is unavailable, by the most senior Associate Justice.
- In an emergency where the Chief Justice and the Associate Justice are not available, the oath or affirmation shall be administered by a judge of a subordinate court of record.

Article 54

The President shall nominate and, with the consent of the Senate, appoint and commission:

- cabinet ministers, deputy and assistant cabinet ministers;
- ambassadors, ministers, consuls; and
- the Chief Justice and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and judges of subordinate courts;
- superintendents, other county officials and officials of other political sub-divisions;
- members of the military from the rank of lieutenant of its equivalent and above; and
- marshals, deputy marshals, and sheriffs.

Article 55

The President shall appoint and commission Notaries Public and Justices of the Peace with the same powers as in other countries. They shall hold office for a term of two years but may be removed by the President for cause. They shall be appointed by the President.

Article 56

- All cabinet ministers, deputy and assistant cabinet ministers, ambassadors, ministers and other government officials, both military and civilian, appointed by the President pursuant to this Constitution shall hold their offices at the pleasure of the President.
- There shall be elections of Paramount, Clan and Town Chiefs by the registered voters of each locality, to serve for a term of six years. They may be re-elected and may be removed by the President for proved misconduct. The Legislature shall enact laws to provide for their qualifications and powers to be required.

Article 57

The President shall have the power to conduct the foreign affairs of the Republic and in that regard is empowered to conclude treaties, conventions and similar international agreements with the approval of a majority of each House of the Legislature.

Article 58

The President shall, on the fourth working Monday in January of each year, present the legislative program for the ensuing session, and shall once a year report to the Legislature of the Republic. In presenting the economic condition of the Republic the report shall cover as well as income.

Article 59

The President may remit any public forfeitures and penalties suspend and fines and sentences reprieves and pardons, and restore civil rights after conviction for all public offenses, except treason.

Article 60

The President and the Vice-President shall receive salaries which shall be determined by law and be paid by the Republic. Such salaries shall be subject to taxes as defined by law and shall not be increased nor diminished during the period for which the President and the Vice-President are elected.

Article 61

The President shall be immune from any suits, actions or proceedings, judicial or otherwise, for arrest, detention or other actions on account of any act done by him while President of Liberia. No provision of this Constitution or any other laws of the Republic shall deprive the President of his immunity from prosecution upon removal from office for the commission of any criminal act while President.

Article 62

The President and the Vice-President may be removed from office by impeachment for treason and other felonies, violation of the Constitution or gross misconduct.

Article 63

- a. Whenever a person elected to the office of President dies or is otherwise incapacitated before being inaugurated into office, the Vice-President elected shall succeed to the office of President and his accession shall commence a term.
- b. Whenever the office of the President shall become vacant by reason of death, resignation, impeachment, or the President shall be declared incapable of carrying out the duties and functions of his office, the Vice-President shall succeed to the office of the President to complete the unexpired term. In such case, this shall not constitute a term.
- c. The Legislature shall, no later than one year after the coming into force of this Constitution, establish guidelines and determine the procedure under which the President, by reason of illness, or incapability of carrying out the functions of his office.
- d. Whenever the office of the Vice-President becomes vacant by reason of death, resignation, impeachment, inability or otherwise, the President shall, without delay, nominate a candidate for the office. The concurrence of both Houses of the Legislature, shall be sworn in and hold office as Vice-President until the next general elections are held. Whenever the Vice-President elect dies, resigns, or is incapable of being inaugurated, the President elected on the same ticket with him, shall, after being inaugurated, nominate without delay a candidate who, with the concurrence of both Houses of the Legislature, shall be sworn in and hold office as Vice-President until the next general elections are held.

Article 64

Whenever the office of the President and of the Vice-President shall become vacant by reason of death, resignation, inability or other disability of the President and Vice-President, the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall be sworn in as Acting President until the holding of the next general elections. Should the Speaker be legally incapable or otherwise unable to act as Acting President, then the same shall devolve in order upon the Deputy Speaker and members of the House of Representatives.

Cabinet in the order of precedence as established by law. The Elections Commission shall conduct elections for a new President and a new Vice-President.

Chapter VII The Judiciary

Article 65

The Judicial Power of the Republic shall be vested in a Supreme Court and such subordinate courts as the Legislature may from time to time establish. The courts shall apply both statutory and customary law in accordance with the standards enacted by the Legislature. Judgements of the Supreme Court shall be final and binding and shall not be subject to appeal or review by any other branch of Government. This Article shall prohibit administrative consideration of the Justiciable matter prior to review by the competent jurisdiction.

Article 66

The Supreme Court shall be final arbiter of constitutional issues and shall exercise final appellate jurisdiction in all cases whether emanating from courts of record, courts not of record, administrative agencies, autonomous agencies or any other authority, both as to law and fact except cases involving ambassadors, ministers, or cases in which a country is a party. In all such cases, the Supreme Court shall exercise original jurisdiction. The Legislature shall make no law nor create any exceptions to the powers of the Supreme Court of any of the powers granted herein.

Article 67

The Supreme Court shall comprise of one Chief Justice and four Associate Justices, a majority of whom shall be deemed competent to transact the business of the Court. If a quorum is not obtained, a circuit judge in the order of seniority shall sit as an ad hoc justice of the Supreme Court.

Article 68

The Chief Justice and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court shall, with the consent of the Senate, be appointed and commissioned by the President; provided that any person so appointed shall be:

- a citizen of Liberia and of good moral character; and
- a counselor of the Supreme Court Bar who has practiced for at least 5 years.

Article 69

The judges of subordinate courts of record shall, with the consent of the Senate, be appointed and commissioned by the President, provided that any person so appointed shall be:

- a citizen of Liberia and of good moral character; and
- an Attorney-at-Law whom has practiced for at least 3 years, or a counselor of the Supreme Court Bar.

Article 70

The Chief Justice and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and all judges of subordinate courts shall, before assuming the functions of their office, subscribe to a solemn oath or affirmation of office, faithfully and impartially to perform the duties and functions of their office and to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution and laws of the Republic. The oath or affirmation shall be administered by the Chief Justice or his designee.

Article 71

The Chief Justice and Associates Justices of the Supreme Court and the judges of subordinate courts shall hold office during good behavior. They may be removed upon impeachment by the Legislature based on proved misconduct, gross breach of duty, inability to perform the office, or conviction in a court of law for treason, bribery or other infamous crimes.

Article 72

a. The Justices of the Supreme Court and all other judges shall receive such salaries, all benefits as shall be established by law. Such salaries shall be subject to taxes as defined that they shall not otherwise be diminished. Allowances and benefits paid to Justices of the Court and judges of subordinate courts may by law be increased but may not be diminished except by a law enacted by the Legislature; nor shall such allowance and benefits be subject to any national program enacted by the Legislature; nor shall such allowance and benefits be subject to any other law.

b. The Chief Justice and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of subordinate courts shall be retired at the age of seventy; provided, however, that a justice or judge who at that age may continue in office for as long as may be necessary to enable him to render judgment or perform any other judicial duty in regard to proceedings entertained by him before the retirement.

Article 73

No judicial official shall be summoned, arrested, detained, prosecuted or tried civilly or criminally on the instance of any person or authority on account of judicial opinions rendered or expressions of opinion, statements made and judicial acts done in the course of a trial in open court or in chambers, or on account of treason or other felonies, misdemeanor or breach of the peace. Statements made and acts done by judicial officials in the course of a judicial proceeding shall be privileged, and, subject to the above provisions, such statement made or acts done shall be admissible into evidence against them at any proceeding.

Article 74

In all matters of contempt of court, whether in the Supreme Court or in other courts, the punishment imposed shall be fixed by the Legislature and shall conform to the provision on Fundamental Rights set down in this Constitution.

Article 75

The Supreme Court shall from time to time make rules of court for the purpose of regulating the procedure and manner by which cases shall be commenced and heard before it and all other courts. It shall prescribe such code of conduct for lawyers appearing before it and all other courts as may be necessary to facilitate the proper discharge of the court's functions. Such rules, however, shall not contravene any statutory provisions or any provisions of this Constitution.

Article 76

a. Treason against the Republic shall consist of:

- (1) levying war against the Republic;
- (2) aligning oneself with or aiding and abetting another nation or people with whom Liberia is at state of war;
- (3) acts of espionage for an enemy state;
- (4) attempting by overt act to overthrow the Government, rebellion against the Republic, insurrection, mutiny; and
- (5) abrogating or attempting to abrogate, subverting or attempting or conspiring to subvert the Government by use of force or show of force or any other means which attempts to undermine this Constitution.

b. The Legislature shall have the power to declare the punishment for treason; provided, however, that such punishment shall not include a deprivation or forfeiture of the right of inheritance by any person of any property although he may not be entitled to enjoyment thereof for as long as he shall serve the term of imprisonment imposed after conviction in a court of competent jurisdiction. The enjoyment of any property inherited or otherwise conveyed to or acquired by such convicted person shall be automatically restored upon serving the term of imprisonment or other punishment, or upon executive pardon by the President. No punishment shall preclude the inheritance and enjoyment of the property or the forfeiture by others entitled thereto, of any property which the convicted person at the time of conviction owned or was entitled to.

conviction or subsequent thereto may have possessed or been seized.

Chapter VIII Political Parties and Elections

Article 77

a. Since the essence of democracy is free competition of ideas expressed by political parties and groups as well as by individuals, parties may freely be established to advocate the political interests of the people. Laws, regulations, decrees or measures which might have the effect of creating a monopoly shall be declared unconstitutional.

b. All elections shall be by secret ballot as may be determined by the Elections Commission. Every Liberian citizen not less than 18 years of age, shall have the right to be registered as a voter in public elections and referenda under this Constitution. The Legislature shall enact laws in this category of Liberians who shall not form or become members of political parties.

Article 78

As used in this Chapter, unless the context otherwise requires, an "association" means a corporation or other, which acts together for a common purpose, and includes a group of persons for any ethnic, social, cultural, occupational or religious objectives; a "political party" shall mean an organization with a membership of not less than five hundred qualified voters in each of at least six counties whose activities include canvassing for votes on any public issue or in support of a candidate for public office; and an "independent candidate" shall be a person seeking electoral post or office who is not a member of his own organization, acting independently of a political party.

Article 79

No association, by whatever name called, shall function as a political party, nor shall any individual or independent candidate for election to public office, unless:

- a. the association or independent candidate and his organization meet the minimum registration requirements laid down by the Elections Commission and are registered with it. Registration shall include filing with the Elections Commission a copy of the constitution of the association or the guidelines of the independent candidate and his organization, a detailed statement of the names and addresses of the association and its officers or of the independent candidate and the officers of his organization, and fulfillment of the provision of sub-sections (b), (c), (d) and (e) hereof. Registration with the Elections Commission of any association or independent candidate and his organization shall confer upon that entity or candidate and his organization so registered legal personality, with the capacity to sue and be sued in real, personal or mixed, to sue and be sued and to hold accounts. A denial of registration by the Elections Commission to register any applicant may be challenged by the applicant in the courts.
- b. the membership of the association or the independent candidate's organization is open to all citizens of Liberia, irrespective of sex, religion or ethnic background, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution.
- c. the headquarters of the association or independent candidate and his organization is situated:
 - i. in the capital of the Republic where an association is involved or where an independent candidate seeks election to the office of President or Vice- President;
 - ii. in the headquarters of the county where an independent candidate seeks election as a member of Representatives;
 - iii. in the electoral center in the constituency where the candidate seeks election as a member of Representatives or to any other public office;
- d. the name, objective, emblem or motto of the association or of the independent candidate and his organization is free from any religious connotations or divisive ethnic implications and that the association or independent candidate are not limited to a special group or, in the case of an association, limited to a particular geographic area of Liberia;
- e. the constitution and rules of the political party shall conform to the provisions of this Constitution.

for the democratic elections of officers and/or governing body at least once every six year election of officers from as many of the regions and ethnic groupings in the country as possible. Amendments to the Constitution or rules of a political party shall be registered with the Elections Commission no later than ten days from the effective dates of such amendments.

Article 80

- a. Parties or organizations which, by reason of their aims or the behavior of their adherents, seek to destroy or abolish the free democratic society of Liberia or to endanger the existence of the Republic shall be denied registration.
- b. Parties or organization which retain, organize, train or equip any person or group of persons to use or display of physical force or coercion in promoting any political objective or interest, shall be denied registration, or if registered, shall have their registration revoked.
- c. Every Liberian citizen shall have the right to be registered in a constituency, and to vote in elections only in the constituency where registered, either in person or by absentee ballot. Such citizen shall have the right to change his voting constituency as may be prescribed by law.
- d. Each constituency shall have an approximately equal population of 20,000, or such number as the legislature shall prescribe in keeping with population growth and movements as revealed by the national census; provided that the total number of electoral constituencies in the Republic shall not exceed one hundred.
- e. Immediately following a national census and before the next election, the Elections Commission shall reapportion the constituencies in accordance with the new population figures so that every constituency shall have as close to the same population as possible; provided, however, that a constituency shall not be solely within a county.

Article 81

- (1) Any citizen, political party, organization, or association, being resident in Liberia, of Liberian birth or origin and not otherwise disqualified under the provisions of this Constitution and laws of the land, shall have the right to canvass for the votes for any candidate at any election, provided that corporate and business organizations and labor unions shall be excluded from so canvassing directly or indirectly in whatsoever form.

Article 82

- a. Any citizen or citizens, political party association or organization, being of Liberian nationality shall have the right to contribute to the funds or election expenses of any political party or organization, provided that corporate and business organizations and labor unions shall be excluded from contributing to the funds or expenses of any political party. The Legislature shall by law prescribe guidelines under which such contributions may be made and the maximum amount which may be contributed.
- b. No political party or organization may hold or possess any funds or other assets outside Liberia; nor may they or any independent candidates retain any funds or assets remitted or sent to Liberia unless remitted or sent by Liberian citizens residing abroad. Any funds or other assets so received directly or indirectly in contravention of this restriction shall be paid over or transferred to the Elections Commission within twenty-one days of receipt. Information on all funds received from abroad shall be promptly with the Elections Commission.
- c. The Elections Commission shall have the power to examine into and order certified audits of the transactions of political parties and independent candidates and their organizations. The Commission shall prescribe the kinds of records to be kept and the manner in which they shall be conducted. Such audits shall be conducted by a chartered public accountant, not a member of any political party.

Article 83

- a. Voting for the President, Vice-President, members of the Senate and members of the House of Representatives shall be conducted throughout the Republic on the second Tuesday in October.

election year.

b. All elections of public officers shall be determined by an absolute majority of the votes. If no candidate obtains an absolute majority in the first ballot, a second ballot shall be conducted on Tuesday following. The two candidates who received the greatest numbers of votes on the first ballot shall be designated to participate in the run-off election.

c. The returns of the elections shall be declared by the Elections Commission not later than seven days after the casting of ballots. Any party or candidate who complains about the manner in which the elections were conducted or who challenges the results thereof shall have the right to file a complaint with the Elections Commission. Such complaint must be filed not later than seven days after the announcement of the results of the elections.

The Elections Commission shall, within thirty days of receipt of the complaint, conduct an investigation and render a decision which may involve a dismissal of the complaint or a declaration of a new election of a candidate. Any political party or independent candidate affected by such decision shall have the right to appeal against it to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court shall, within seven days of receipt of the notice of appeal, forward the case to the Supreme Court, which not later than seven days thereafter, shall hear and render a determination. If the Supreme Court nullifies or sustains the nullification of the election of a candidate, the Elections Commission shall, within sixty days of the decision of the Supreme Court, conduct new elections to fill the vacancy. If the court sustains the election of a candidate, the Elections Commission shall act to effectuate the mandate of the Court.

d. Every political party shall, on September 1 of each year, and every candidate of such party shall, and every independent candidate shall, not later than thirty days prior to the holding of an election, publish and submit to the Elections Commission detailed statements of assets and liabilities. These shall include the enumeration of sources of funds and other assets, plus lists of expenditures. The filing of such statements is made in an election year, every political party and independent candidate shall be required to file with the Elections Commission additional detailed supplementary statements of assets and liabilities, funds received and expenditures made by them from the date of filing of the original statements of the elections. Any political party or independent candidate who ceases to function shall submit a final financial statement to the Elections Commission.

Article 84

The Legislature shall by law provide penalties for any violations of the relevant provisions of this Chapter and shall enact laws and regulations in furtherance thereof not later than 1986; provided that such penalties, laws or regulations shall not be inconsistent with any provisions of this Constitution.

Chapter IX Emergency Powers

Article 85

The President, as Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces, may order any portion of the Armed Forces into a state of combat readiness in defense of the Republic, before or after the declaration of a state of emergency, as may be warranted by the situation. All military power or authority shall at all times be held in subordination to the civil authority and the Constitution.

Article 86

a. The President may, in consultation with the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Pro Tempore of the Senate, proclaim and declare the existence of a state of emergency in the Republic or any part thereof. Acting pursuant thereto, the President may suspend or affect the operation of the freedoms and guarantees contained in this Constitution and exercise such other emergency powers as may be necessary and appropriate to take care of the emergency, subject, however, to the provisions contained in this Chapter.

b. A state of emergency may be declared only where there is a threat or outbreak of war or civil unrest affecting the existence, security or well-being of the Republic amounting to a danger.

Article 87

a. Emergency powers do not include the power to suspend or abrogate the Constitution, or the Legislature, or suspend or dismiss the Judiciary; and no constitutional amendment shall be made during a state of emergency. Where the Legislature is not in session, it must be convened in special session and remain in session during the entire period of the state of emergency.

b. The writ of habeas corpus shall remain available and exercisable at all times and shall not be suspended on account of any state of emergency. It shall be enjoyed in the most free, easy, inexpensive and ample manner. Any person who suffers from a violation of this right may challenge such violation in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Article 88

The President shall, immediately upon the declaration of a state of emergency, but not later than ten days thereafter, lay before the Legislature at its regular session or at a specially convened session the facts and circumstances leading to such declaration. The Legislature shall within seventy days by a joint resolution voted by two-thirds of the membership of each house, decide whether the state of emergency is justified or whether the measures taken thereunder are appropriate. If such a vote is not obtained, the emergency automatically shall be revoked. Where the Legislature is necessary to revoke the state of emergency or to modify the measures taken thereunder, the President shall act accordingly and immediately carry out the decisions of the Legislature.

Chapter X Autonomous Public Commissions

Article 89

The following Autonomous Public Commissions are hereby established:

- A. Civil Service Commission;
- B. Elections Commission; and
- C. General Auditing Commission.

The Legislature shall enact laws for the governance of these Commissions and create other laws that may be necessary for the effective operation of Government.

Chapter XI Miscellaneous

Article 90

a. No person, whether elected or appointed to any public office, shall engage in any other business which shall be against public policy, or constitute conflict of interest.

b. No person holding office shall demand and receive any other perquisites, emoluments directly or indirectly, on account of any duty required by Government.

c. The Legislature shall, in pursuance of the above provision, prescribe a Code of Conduct for public officials and employees, stipulating the acts which constitute conflict of interest or are against public policy and the penalties for violation thereof.

Chapter XII Amendments

Article 91

This Constitution may be amended whenever a proposal by either (1) two-thirds of the members of both Houses of the Legislature or (2) a petition submitted to the Legislature, by not fewer than one-tenth of the registered voters, which receives the concurrence of two-thirds of the membership of both Houses of the Legislature, is ratified by two-thirds of the registered voters, voting in a referendum conducted by the Electoral Commission not sooner than one year after the action of the Legislature.

Article 92

Proposed constitutional amendments shall be accompanied by statements setting forth the reasons therefor and shall be published in the Official Gazette and made known to the people through the mass information services of the Republic. If more than one proposed amendment is to be voted on in a referendum they shall be submitted in such manner that the people may vote for or against each separately.

Article 93

The limitation of the Presidential term of office to two terms, each of six years duration, may be amended; provided that the amendment shall not become effective during the term of office of the incumbent President.

Chapter XIII Transitional ProvisionsArticle 94

- a. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Constitution, any person duly elected to office under the laws provided for under this Constitution and under the laws in force immediately before the coming into force of this Constitution shall be deemed to have been duly elected for the purpose of this Constitution and shall be deemed to have assumed the position so occupied on the date of coming into existence of this Constitution.
- b. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Constitution, elections for the President and members of the Legislature, prior to the coming into force of this Constitution, shall be held on Tuesday in January 1985. The person so elected President of Liberia shall be inaugurated on April 1, 1985. The President, Vice-President and members of the Legislature who are elected under the laws in force prior to the coming into force of this Constitution, shall serve their respective terms for the remainder of their term. This Constitution shall come into force simultaneously with that inauguration.
- c. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Constitution, the People's Redemption Committee shall convene a session of the newly elected Legislature before the 12th day of April 1985. The Senate and House of Representatives to organize and elect their officers. Such elections shall be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures laid down by the Legislature under the laws in force prior to the coming into force of this Constitution until changed by the new Legislature.
- d. Any person who, under the laws extant immediately before the coming into force of this Constitution, held an appointment or was acting in an office shall be deemed to have been appointed, under the laws in force prior to the coming into force of this Constitution, to hold or to act in the equivalent office under the laws in force prior to the coming into force of this Constitution until appointments otherwise provided for under this Constitution shall have taken effect.

Article 95

- a. The Constitution of the Republic of Liberia which came into force on the 26th day of July 1979 and which was suspended on the 12th day of April 1980, is hereby abrogated. Notwithstanding this abrogation, however, any enactment or rule of law in existence immediately before the coming into force of this Constitution, whether derived from the abrogated Constitution or from any other source shall continue in force if it is not inconsistent with any provision of this Constitution, continue in force as if enacted, in accordance with the authority of this Constitution.

b. All treaties, executive and other international agreements and obligations concluded by of the People's Redemption Council or prior governments in the name of the Republic prior to the coming into force of this Constitution shall continue to be valid and binding on the Republic unless cancelled or unless otherwise inconsistent with this Constitution.

c. All foreign and domestic debts or other loans and obligations contracted by the Government or the People's Redemption Council or Prior governments or any agency or other authority in the Republic of Liberia prior to the coming into existence of this Constitution, shall continue to be enforceable by the Republic of Liberia.

Article 96

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Constitution:

a. The People's Supreme Court of Liberia and all subordinate courts operating prior to the coming into force of this Constitution shall continue to so operate, and the Chief Justice, Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of subordinate courts holding appointments in such courts shall continue to hold such appointments after the coming into existence of this Constitution until their successors are appointed and qualified; provided, however, that all judges of subordinate courts shall remain and perform their duties in their respective resident circuits pending the reconstruction of the Supreme Court. The appointments of the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of subordinate courts, shall be made as soon as possible after the coming into force of this Constitution. The Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of subordinate courts holding office prior thereto, unless reappointed, shall cease to hold office and their functions shall automatically devolve upon the newly appointed Chief Justice, Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of subordinate courts, respectively.

b. Where any legal or administrative proceeding has been commenced, or a person seeks to exercise any authority or one acting under the authority of the Government, that matter may be carried to its conclusion by the person or authority having power or by his successor-in-office; and it shall not be necessary for any such proceeding to be commenced de novo. Any act completed by any authority having power under the existing law shall not be made the subject of review or challenge by anyone assuming the authority of that office after the coming into force of this Constitution.

Article 97

a. No executive, legislative, judicial or administrative action taken by the People's Redemption Council or by any persons, whether military or civilian, in the name of that Council pursuant to any order or decree shall be questioned in any proceedings whatsoever; and, accordingly, it shall not be lawful for any court or tribunal to make any order or grant any remedy or relief in respect of any such act.

b. No court or other tribunal shall entertain any action whatsoever instituted against the Government of Liberia, whether before or after the coming into force of this Constitution or against any person who assisted in any manner whatsoever in bringing about the change of Government of Liberia on the 11th day of April, 1980, in respect of any act or commission relating to or consequent upon:

- i. The overthrow of the government in power in Liberia before the establishment of the Government of the People's Redemption Council;
- ii. The suspension of the Constitution of Liberia of July 26, 1847;
- iii. The establishment, functioning and other organs established by the People's Redemption Council;
- iv. The imposition of any penalties, including the death penalty, or the confiscation of any property under the authority of the People's Redemption Council under a decree made by the Council, but not limited to the measures undertaken by the Council to punish persons guilty of criminal malpractices to the detriment of the Liberian nation, the people, the economy, or the public interest;
- v. The establishment of this Constitution.